Tips for Minimizing Your Development Review Costs: A Guide for

Applicants

The City of Whitewater assigns its consultant costs associated with reviewing development proposals to the applicant requesting development approval. These costs can vary based on a number of factors. Many of these factors can at least be partially controlled by the applicant for development review. The City recognizes that we are in a time when the need to control costs is at the forefront of everyone's minds. The following guide is intended to assist applicants for City development approvals to understand what they can do to manage and minimize the costs associated with review of their applications. The tips included in this guide will almost always result in a less costly and quicker review of an application.

Meet with Neighborhoods Services Department before submitting an application

If you are planning on submitting an application for development review, one of the first things you should do is have a discussion with the City's Neighborhood Services Department. This can be accomplished either by dropping by the Neighborhood Services Department counter at City Hall, or by making an appointment with the Neighborhood Services Manager / City Planner. Before you make significant investments in your project, the Department can help you understand the feasibility of your proposal, what City plans and ordinances will apply, what type of review process will be required, and how to prepare a complete application.

Submit a complete and thorough application

One of the most important things you can do to make your review process less costly to you is to submit a complete, thorough, and well-organized application in accordance with City ordinance requirements. The City has checklists to help you make sure your application is complete. To help you prepare an application that has the right level of detail and information, assume that the people reviewing the application have never seen your property before, have no prior understanding of what you are proposing, and don't necessarily understand the reasons for your request.

For more complex or technical types of projects, strongly consider working with an experienced professional to help prepare your plans

Experienced professional engineers, land planners, architects, surveyors and landscape architects should be quite familiar with standard development review processes and expectations. They are also generally capable of preparing high-quality plans that will ultimately require less time (i.e., less cost for you) for the City's planning and engineering consultants to review, saving you money in the long run. Any project that includes significant site grading, stormwater management, or utility work; significant landscaping; or significant building remodeling or expansion generally requires professionals in the associated fields to help out.

For simpler projects, submit thorough, legible, and accurate plans

For less complicated proposals, it is certainly acceptable to prepare plans yourself rather than paying to have them prepared by a professional. However, keep in mind that even though the project may be less complex, the City's staff and consultants still need to ensure that your proposal meets all City requirements. Therefore, such plans must be prepared with care. Regardless of the complexity, all site, building, and floor plans should:

1. Be drawn to a recognized scale and indicate what the scale is (e.g., 1 inch = 40 feet).
2. Include titles and dates on all submitted documents in case pieces of your application get separated.
3. Include clear and legible labels that identify streets, existing and proposed buildings, parking areas, and other site improvements.
4. Indicate what the property and improvements look like today versus what is being proposed for the future.
5. Accurately represent and label the dimensions of all lot lines, setbacks, pavement/parking areas, building heights, and any other pertinent project features.
6. Indicate the colors and materials of all existing and proposed site/building improvements.
7. Including color photos with your application is one inexpensive and accurate way to show the current condition of the site. Color catalog pages or paint chips can be included to show the appearance of proposed signs, light fixtures, fences, retaining walls, landscaping features, building materials, or other similar improvements.

Submit your application well in advance of the Plan and Architectural Review Commission meeting

The City normally requires that a complete application be submitted four weeks in advance of the Commission meeting when it will be considered. The further in advance you can submit your application, the better for you and everyone involved in reviewing the project. Additional review time may give the City's consultant staff and staff an opportunity to communicate with you about potential issues with your project or application and allow you time to efficiently address those issues before the Plan and Architectural Review Commission meeting. Be sure to provide reliable contact information on your application form and be available to respond to such questions or requests in a timely manner.

For more complex projects, submit your project for conceptual review

A conceptual review can be accomplished in several ways depending on the nature of your project and your desired outcomes.

1. Preliminary plans may be submitted to City staff and/or planning consultant for a quick, informal review. This will allow you to gauge initial reactions to your proposal and help you identify key issues;
2. You may request a sit-down meeting with the Neighborhood Services Manager/ City Planner to review and more thoroughly discuss your proposal; and/or

3. You can ask to be placed on a Plan and Architectural Review Commission meeting agenda to present and discuss preliminary plans with the Commission and gauge its reaction before formally submitting your development review application.

Overall, conceptual reviews almost always save time, money, stress, and frustration in the long run for everyone involved. For this reason, the City will absorb up to $200 in consultant review costs for conceptual review of each project.

Hold a neighborhood meeting for larger and potentially more controversial Projects

If you believe your project falls into one or both of these two categories (City staff can help you decide), one way to help the formal development review process go more smoothly is to host a meeting for the neighbors and any other interested members of the community. This would happen before any Plan and Architectural Review Commission meeting and often before you even submit a formal development review application.

A neighborhood meeting will give you an opportunity to describe your proposal, respond to questions and concerns, and generally address issues in an environment that is less formal and potentially less emotional than a Plan and Architectural Review Commission meeting. Neighborhood meetings can help you build support for your project, understand others' perspectives on your proposals, clarify misunderstandings, and modify the project and alleviate public concerns before the Plan and Architectural Review Commission meetings. Please notify the Neighborhood Services Manager / City Planner of your neighborhood meeting date, time, and place; make sure all neighbors are fully aware (City staff can provide you a mailing list at no charge); and document the outcomes of the meeting to include with your application.

Typical City Planning Consultant Development Review Costs

The City often utilizes assistance from a planning consultant to analyze requests for land development approvals against City plans and ordinances and assist the City's Plan and Architectural Review Commission and City Council on decision making. Because it is the applicant who is generating the need for the service, the City's policy is to assign most consultant costs associated with such review to the applicant, as opposed to asking the general taxpayer to cover these costs.

The development review costs provided below represent the planning consultant's range of costs associated with each particular type of development review. This usually involves some initial analysis of the application well before the public meeting date, communication with the applicant at that time if there are key issues to resolve before the meeting, further analysis and preparation of a written report the week before the meeting, meeting attendance, and sometimes minor follow-up after the meeting. Costs vary depending on a wide range of factors, including the type of application, completeness and clarity of the development application, the size and complexity of the proposed development, the degree of cooperation from the applicant for further information, and the level of community interest. The City has a guide called "Tips for Minimizing Your Development Review Costs" with information on how the applicant can help control costs.

Type of Development Review Being Requested	Planning Consultant Review Cost Range
Minor Site/Building Plan (e.g., minor addition to building, parking lot expansion, small apartment, downtown building alterations)
When land use is a permitted use in the zoning district, and for minor downtown building alterations	Up to $600
When use also requires a conditional use permit, and for major downtown building alterations	$700 to $1,500
Major Site/Building Plan (e.g., new gas station/convenience store, new restaurant, supermarket, larger apartments, industrial building)
When land use is a permitted use in the zoning district	$700 to $2,000
When land use also requires a conditional use permit	$1,600 to $12,000
Conditional Use Permit with no Site Plan Review (e.g., home occupation, sale of liquor request, substitution of use in existing building)	$up to $600
Rezoning
To a standard (not PCD) zoning district	$400 to $2,000
To Planned Community Development zoning district, assuming complete GDP & SIP application submitted at same time	$2,100 to $12,000
Land Division
Certified Survey Map	Up to $300
Preliminary Subdivision Plat	$1,500 to $3,000
Final Plat (does not include any development agreement time)	$500 to $1,500
Annexation	$200 to $400

Note: The City also retains a separate engineering consultant, who is typically involved in larger projects requiring stormwater management plans, major utility work, or complex parking or road access plans. Engineering costs are not included above, but will also be assigned to the development review applicant. The consultant planner and engineer closely coordinate their reviews to control costs.

Cost Recovery Certificate and Agreement

The City may retain the services of professional consultants (including planners, engineers, architects, attorneys, environmental specialists, and recreation specialists) to assist in the City's review of an application for development review coming before the Plan and Architectural Review Commission, Board of Zoning Appeals, and/or Common Council. In fact, most applications require some level of review by the City's planning consultant. City of Whitewater staff shall retain sole discretion in determining when and to what extent it is necessary to involve a professional consultant in the review of an application.

The submittal of an application or petition for development review by an applicant shall be construed as an agreement to pay for such professional review services associated with the application or petition. The City may apply the charges for these services to the applicant and/or property owner in accordance with this agreement. The City may delay acceptance of an application or petition (considering it incomplete), or may delay final action or approval of the associated proposal, until the applicant pays such fees or the specified percentage thereof. Development review fees that are assigned to the applicant, but that are not actually paid, may then be imposed by the City as a special charge on the affected property.
